

Biodata

Ms Li Wenjie is Chief Assistant of Rare Book Section, Rare Book & Special Collection Department, National Library of China. She has worked in the Rare Book Section since 2004 and has accumulated much experience in the cataloguing of and research on rare books.

Ms Lie has been taking part in the China Ancient Book Preservation Project since it started in February 2007. The major task of the project is to investigate the holding situation of Chinese ancient books in order to provide a better preservation of Chinese cultural treasures.

Ms Wang Yang is Chief of Chinese Bibliographical Records Section of Acquisitions & Cataloging Department, National Library of China. She graduated from the Department of Measurement Technology and Signal Processing of the University of Science and Technology Beijing (USTB) with a Bachelor's degree in 1999. In the same year, Ms Wang became a librarian at the Acquisitions & Cataloging Department of National Library of China. The Chinese Bibliographical Records Section is mainly engaged in the description, subject analysis, classification, and authority control of news books. She is also a member of "the Chinese Document Cataloging Rule (Second Edition)" working team and has published six articles on cataloguing.